

Culture-Centered Leadership™

Empowering senior leadership teams to build wildly engaged cultures.

Pam Dibbs is a keynote speaker, executive advisor, and stand-up comedian who works with senior leadership teams around the globe to create wildly engaged cultures that drive lasting results. For over three decades, she has helped industry giants, including Boeing, Microsoft, and Nike, harness the power of Culture-Centered Leadership™ to transform their organizations from the top down.

A strong culture is an organization's most powerful advantage—but it's complex, which means it can't be fixed with a swag bag. That's why Pam works with leaders to revolutionize their thinking, reimagine their roles, and make small but vital changes that rebuild teams across entire organizations.

Whether she's speaking on stage or tackling deeply embedded people challenges, she puts her finger on the pulse of employee experience to help teams achieve breakthroughs that matter. With her signature British wit and a natural talent for asking the right questions, she uncovers valuable insights, reveals hidden opportunities, and sparks true transformation.
